Mark Allan

Azure MVP. Learnt from 35 years of mistakes.

Mark is an Azure MVP (and Xamarin Certified Developer) based on the beautiful North Coast of Northern Ireland. He's been a professional developer since the 1980s and freelance since 2000, working on a myriad of projects for everything from local startups and councils to multinational corporations and federal government departments. While something of a technology omnivore, particularly if it's new and shiny, he currently tends towards Xamarin and React front-ends sitting on top of scalable Azure services, using a functional and reactive approach. In his spare time he's a STEM Ambassador, CoderDojo mentor, Barefoot volunteer and organiser of the Northern Ireland Developer Conference.

Aleksandar Velichkovski

Pramerica Services Ireland Ltd, Systems Specialist Developer

Senior .NET developer with more than 13 years of professional .NET experience mostly in web, but also windows development.

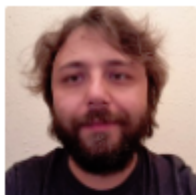

Always interested in the "bleeding edge" Microsoft technologies.

Specialized in both front-end and back-end development of web-based business apps with a niche of finance and insurance.

— .NET Core, EF Core and some sweet generics

Greg Bernas

Software Development Manager @ Antaris Consulting

Experienced software developer, IT professional, coach, leader.

I wrote my first programs more than twenty years ago and I have driven my career as a programmer by developing my passion and gaining technical field knowledge.

Agile thinking from low-level experience on manufacturing area to business process streaming and evaluating.

Wide knowledge of business processes with an understanding of cost reduction solutions like Lean Manufacturing, Kaizen, Total Production Maintenance

Joon Du Randt

Solution architect, Pramerica

Solution architect for the SharePoint / Azure environment at Prudential Financial. I've been coding for 20 years, and still love that buzz you get when stuff goes right (sometimes after a few tries...)
